UNM HOSTS COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT SYMPOSIUM 2023

Learn more here.

Inclusion; Register in Advance

The University of New Mexico will host its 2023 Community Engagement Symposium at the Downtown Plaza on January 13, 2024, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The symposium will focus on Advancing New Mexico and having exceptional staff members who have made significant contributions to the University.

The University of New Mexico Staff Council is now accepting nominations for the 2023 Staff Service Awards. Nominations will be accepted during the 2023 Community Engagement Symposium. Please submit nominations in writing by Monday, January 16, 2024.

UNM HOSTS COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT SYMPOSIUM 2023

Learn more here.

November is Lung Cancer Awareness Month – White Ribbon -

If you or someone you love has concerns of Lung Cancer, please speak to your doctor. According to the American Cancer Society, the number of women diagnosed with Lung Cancer is more than breast cancer (43,170). The total number of breast cancer cases was 254,000.

UNM ENGINEERING PROFESSOR LEADS DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY PROJECT TO DEVELOP BIOLOGICAL SENSORS TO MONITOR AIR QUALITY

A professor at The University of New Mexico Department of Nuclear Engineering is leading a project that aims to develop biological sensors to monitor air quality. The project is funded by the Department of Energy.

UNM ENGINEERING PROFESSOR LEADS NATIONAL SCIENCE FOUNDATION FUNDING OPPORTUNITY

A professor at The University of New Mexico Engineering school is leading a project that aims to develop new technologies for monitoring air quality. The project is funded by the National Science Foundation.

UNM HOSTS COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT SYMPOSIUM 2023

Learn more here.

FINALISTS SELECTED FOR DEAN OF ANDERSON SCHOOL OF MANAGEMENT

James Holloway has invited three finalists to campus for the position of Dean, Anderson School of Management. The finalists are:

1. Emily Luhman
2. John Smith
3. Richard Johnson

The finalists will participate in open forums on November 6. Learn more here.

VERMONT STATE CLIMATOLOGIST WILL DELIVER ‘23 MURPHY LECTURE

The University of New Mexico will host its 2023 Murphy Lecture, featuring a talk from Lesley-Ann L. Dupigny-Giroux, Ph.D., University of New Mexico Provost and Executive Vice President for Academic Affairs.

UNM HOSTS COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT SYMPOSIUM 2023

Learn more here.

The University of New Mexico will host its 2023 Community Engagement Symposium at the Downtown Plaza on January 13, 2024, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The symposium will focus on Advancing New Mexico and having exceptional staff members who have made significant contributions to the University.

The University of New Mexico Staff Council is now accepting nominations for the 2023 Staff Service Awards. Nominations will be accepted during the 2023 Community Engagement Symposium. Please submit nominations in writing by Monday, January 16, 2024.

UNM HOSTS COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT SYMPOSIUM 2023

Learn more here.

November is Lung Cancer Awareness Month – White Ribbon -

If you or someone you love has concerns of Lung Cancer, please speak to your doctor. According to the American Cancer Society, the number of women diagnosed with Lung Cancer is more than breast cancer (43,170). The total number of breast cancer cases was 254,000.

UNM ENGINEERING PROFESSOR LEADS DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY PROJECT TO DEVELOP BIOLOGICAL SENSORS TO MONITOR AIR QUALITY

A professor at The University of New Mexico Department of Nuclear Engineering is leading a project that aims to develop biological sensors to monitor air quality. The project is funded by the Department of Energy.

UNM ENGINEERING PROFESSOR LEADS NATIONAL SCIENCE FOUNDATION FUNDING OPPORTUNITY

A professor at The University of New Mexico Engineering school is leading a project that aims to develop new technologies for monitoring air quality. The project is funded by the National Science Foundation.

UNM HOSTS COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT SYMPOSIUM 2023

Learn more here.

FINALISTS SELECTED FOR DEAN OF ANDERSON SCHOOL OF MANAGEMENT

James Holloway has invited three finalists to campus for the position of Dean, Anderson School of Management. The finalists are:

1. Emily Luhman
2. John Smith
3. Richard Johnson

The finalists will participate in open forums on November 6. Learn more here.

VERMONT STATE CLIMATOLOGIST WILL DELIVER ‘23 MURPHY LECTURE

The University of New Mexico will host its 2023 Murphy Lecture, featuring a talk from Lesley-Ann L. Dupigny-Giroux, Ph.D., University of New Mexico Provost and Executive Vice President for Academic Affairs.

UNM HOSTS COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT SYMPOSIUM 2023

Learn more here.