With the winning submission of the best salsa recipe on campus, we will be celebrating the success of this event by awarding the winner a free UNM parking permit. Entries are due by 5 p.m. on October 9.

For those interested in participating in the University of New Mexico's Enchanted Eclipse viewing party, please be aware that you should wear a helmet and protective eyewear to ensure your safety. The viewing will be at the University's own observatory, which is located on the north side of campus.

UNM is currently preparing for the demolition of a classroom building in the College of Education. This is in recognition of the 20th anniversary of this educational institution.

To reserve space in the university computer lab, simply turn on your device and take it to the designated area. All computer resources will be available for students to use.

The Division of Human Resources recognizes employees celebrating 5 and 10 years with UNM. If you'd like to lend a hand, please get in touch with Martina at her office.

The Health Sciences ECHO Institute, in partnership with the World Health Organization, has launched its first project. This initiative aims to promote digital learning to the global community, specifically in under-served communities.

The projected end of September is the deadline for the Health Sciences ECHO Institute's students and volunteers to sell raffle tickets. The online survey is available at the event, where the raffle will be held.

ARTSSPLASH 2023 will highlight the UNM College of Fine Arts' various art programs, including: Costa Rica, El Salvador, and many more. The event will take place on October 1, and it is open to all UNM employees. Please be sure to check out their website for more information.

The Annual Hispanic Heritage Month is celebrated every October 15th. This year, we are focusing on the themes of heritage, culture, and extensive histories of Latino contributions. This is why the EHS department is encouraging you to participate in a Safety Culture Survey. The anonymous survey focuses on your opinions and wants to assess how we can improve safety in the workplace.

The anonymous survey focuses on your opinions and wants to assess how we can improve safety in the workplace.

The survey is open until Friday, October 13th, and can be accessed here. Additional details:

Survey responses will be anonymous and will be kept completely confidential. As an incentive to complete the survey, the EHS department will provide FREE PIZZA to the participants.

The survey is available here for anyone to complete. The anonymous survey focuses on your opinions and wants to assess how we can improve safety in the workplace.

The survey will help us understand the current safety culture and identify areas for improvement. Please take a moment to complete the survey and help us make UNM a safer place.

We are grateful for your cooperation and support in this important initiative.
